Item 4. Advisory Business

Company

Forté Asset Management, LLC is a privately held New York limited liability company that has been providing investment advisory services as an SEC-registered investment adviser since July 2005. Throughout this disclosure brochure Forté Asset Management, LLC is referred to as “Forté.”

Timothy I. Low and Loriann M. Low are co-owners of Forté Asset Management, LLC.

Services

Investment Management Services

Forté provides personalized investment management services which consist of giving continuous advice to a client or making investments for a client based on the individual needs of the client. Through personal discussions, during which a client’s goals and objectives are established, Forté and the client determine the client’s risk profile and investment guidelines. Forté will then create and manage a customized portfolio based on the client’s risk profile and investment guidelines. Forté will allocate the client’s assets among various investments based on the client’s risk tolerance. Forté’s management of the client’s account will be based on the client’s investment objective.

Clients will have the opportunity to place reasonable restrictions on the types of investments which will be made on the client’s behalf. Clients will retain individual ownership of all securities.

Management of investment portfolios may be either a discretionary or nondiscretionary basis or some combination thereof. For those accounts where Forté is granted discretion, Forté may take any action or non-action as it deems appropriate, with or without further consent or authority from the client and may exercise its discretion and deal with such assets exactly as the client might do as owner, except that Forté is not authorized to withdraw money or securities in the name of the client or otherwise. Forté shall be free to sell securities from the account without regard to the length of time they have been held or the gain or loss that may be realized. Forté shall be free to make investment changes without regard to the rate of portfolio turnover, when it, in its sole discretion, determines that such changes will promote the investment objective of the account.

Assets Under Management

As of December 31, 2021, the total amount of client assets managed by Forté were approximately $219,883,145. Of this total, $219,883,145 are managed on a discretionary basis and $0 on a non-discretionary basis.

Item 5. Fees and Compensation

Investment Management Services Fees

The annual fee for investment management services will be charged as a percentage of assets under management. The table below shows the maximum annual fee for portfolio management services. The actual fee charged may be less than the maximum fee shown below depending upon the size and complexity of the client’s account:

Assets Under Management	Maximum Annual Fee (%)
First $500,000	0.90%

Next $500,000	0.80%
Next $1 Million	0.70%
Next $3 Million	0.50%
Next $5 Million	0.30%
Over $10 Million	0.25%

Forté's annual investment management fee is prorated and paid quarterly, in advance, based upon the market value of the assets on the last business day of the previous quarter. If assets in excess of $100,000 are deposited into an account after the inception of a quarter, the fee payable with respect to such assets may be adjusted or prorated based on the number of days remaining in the quarter. For the initial quarter of investment management services, the initial fee shall be calculated on a pro rata basis.

Unless otherwise agreed to, Forté's investment management agreement and/or the separate agreement the client enters with the account custodian will authorize Forté, through the account custodian, to debit the client's account for the amount of Forté's fee and to directly remit that fee to Forté. Details of the investment management fee charged are more fully described in the advisory agreement entered into with each client.

Important Additional Fee Information

Fees Negotiable

Forté retains the right to modify fees on a client-by-client basis based on the size, complexity and nature of the advisory services provided. To the extent that fees are negotiable, they may differ from client to client based upon a number of factors, including, but not limited to the type and size of the account, the historical and expected size or number of trades for the account, and the number and range of supplemental advisory and client-related services to be provided to the account.

Debit Balances

Interest will be charged to a client's account should the account have a debit balance because of the client's activity. Any debit balance will not be deducted from the account balance for purpose of the calculation of the advisory fee due to Forté.

Direct Debiting of Client Accounts

In order for Forté's advisory fees to be directly debited from a client's account, the client must provide written authorization permitting Forté to bill the custodian. In addition, the account must be held by a qualified custodian and the qualified custodian must agree to send to the client an account statement on at least a quarterly basis. The account statement must indicate all amounts disbursed from the account including the amount of advisory fees paid directly to Forté. Clients are informed that it is their responsibility to verify the accuracy of the fee calculation and that the account custodian will not determine whether the fee is properly calculated.

Termination of Client Relationship

A client has the right to terminate the investment management agreement without penalty within five (5) business days after entering into such agreement. In addition, the investment management agreement may be cancelled at any time, by either party, for any reason upon written or verbal notice. In the event of termination, the client will receive a pro-rata refund of the quarterly advisory fee based on the number of days remaining in the billing period. Refunds will be issued by check within 10 business days.

Exchange Traded Funds

Exchange traded funds (“ETFs”) pay the sponsor of the ETF an investment advisory fee. Therefore, in addition to the fee a client pays Forté to manage its account, the client will indirectly pay its pro rata portion of the management fee of the ETF in which its account is invested.

Trading and Other Costs

All fees paid to Forté for investment advisory services are separate and distinct from transaction fees charged by broker dealers associated with the purchase and sale of equity securities, fixed-income securities, and options. In addition, fees do not include the services of any co-fiduciaries, accountants, broker dealers or attorneys. Please see the section entitled “Brokerage Practices” on page 10 of this disclosure brochure for additional information on brokerage and other transaction costs.

Item 6. Performance-Based Fees and Side-By-Side Management

Forté does not accept performance-based fees (e.g., fees based on a share of capital gains on or capital appreciated of the assets in a client’s account).

Item 7. Types of Clients

Forté provides investment advisory services to individuals (including high net worth individuals and individual IRAs and SEP IRAs), trusts, estates, charitable organizations, corporations, and other types of business entities.

Engaging the Services of Forté

All clients wishing to engage Forté for investment advisory services must sign an investment management agreement that governs the relationship with Forté. The investment management agreement describes the services and responsibilities of Forté to the client. It also outlines Forté’s fee in detail.

In addition to completing Forté’s internal documents (e.g., investment management agreement), clients must complete certain broker-dealer/custodial documentation. Upon completion of these documents, Forté will be considered engaged by the client. A client has an ongoing responsibility for ensuring that Forté is informed in a timely manner of changes in the client’s investment objectives and risk tolerance.

Conditions for Opening Accounts

Forté does not impose a minimum account size or set a minimum annual fee.

Item 8. Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies and Risk of Loss

Types of Investments

Forté primarily invests client assets in its brokerage services program in exchange traded funds (ETFs). In considering ETFs for investment, Forté seeks ETFs with high trading volume for liquidity purposes, and monitors ETFs to ensure they trade closely to their respective net asset values. Forté invests in ETFs in various asset classes, such as: U.S. equity (large cap, small cap, etc.); international equity; fixed income; commodities; and market short ETFs (such as short U.S. bond or U.S. equity indexes). Forté may also invest client assets in leveraged ETFs as well as in domestic and foreign equity securities, mutual funds, bonds, and options.

Investment Strategies

Forté utilizes an institutional approach in its investment management by focusing on the risk of the entire portfolio by considering how each investment contributes to the overall risk of the portfolio. Through this process, Forté constructs an “efficient portfolio” – one which has the highest expected return for a given level of risk. Asset allocation decisions are derived from broad-based investment research into multiple asset classes. These decisions are not based on the day-to-day market conditions. The allocations are customized to each investor’s return objective, risk tolerance, and cash flow requirements with a primary focus on allocation among stocks, bonds and cash. Further customization is achieved through secondary allocations among domestic and foreign stocks, large, mid and small-cap stocks, various alternative investments and fixed income securities.

Forté often utilizes a dynamic strategy called tactical asset allocation that actively adjusts client portfolios based on short-term market forecasts. Its objective is to systematically exploit inefficiencies or temporary imbalances in equilibrium values among different asset or sub-asset classes. Forté generally limits tactical asset allocation shifts to 20 percent of the portfolio to avoid straying too far from the long-term strategy mix.

Security Analysis

Forté employs a wide range of methods to evaluate investments and manage portfolios, including fundamental analysis and technical analysis.

Sources of Information

In conducting security analysis, Forté may utilize the following sources of information: company SEC filings, press releases, company websites, financial news and quotations services, financial data providers, financial newspapers and magazines, financial weblogs, and financial websites.

Risk

In General

Investing in securities involves risk of loss that each client should be prepared to bear. Typical investment risks include market risk typified by a drop in a security’s price due to a company specific event (e.g., unsystematic risk), or general market activity (e.g., systematic risk). In addition, certain strategies may impose more risk than others. For example, with fixed income securities, a period of rising interest rates could erode the value of bond since bond values generally fall as bond yields rise. Investment risk with international equities also includes fluctuation in currency values, differences in accounting and economic and political instability.

Exchange Traded Funds (ETFs)

Equity-based exchange traded funds are subject to risks similar to those of stocks. If the securities tracked within an ETF decline due to weakening fundamentals, crumbling technical support, global events, or any other market fluctuations, the value of the ETF will go down. Fixed income-based ETFs are subject to risks similar to those of bonds such as increasing interest rates. Investment returns will fluctuate and are subject to market volatility, so that an investor's ETF shares, when redeemed or sold, may be worth more or less than their original cost.

Leveraged ETFs

Most leveraged ETFs seek to provide a multiple of the investment returns of a given index or benchmark on a daily basis. Inverse ETFs seek to provide the opposite of the investment returns, also daily, of a given index or benchmark, either in whole or by multiples. Due to the effects of compounding and possible correlation errors, leveraged and inverse ETFs may experience greater losses than one would ordinarily expect. Compounding can also cause a widening differential between the performances of an ETF and its underlying index or benchmark, so that returns over periods longer than one day can differ in amount and direction from the target return of the same period. Consequently, these ETFs may experience losses even in situations where the underlying index or benchmark has performed as hoped. Aggressive investment techniques such as futures, forward contracts, swap agreements, derivatives and options can increase ETF volatility and decrease performance.

Options

There are numerous risks associated with transactions in options on securities or securities indexes. A decision as to whether, when and how to use options involves the exercise of skill and judgment, and even a well-conceived transaction may be unsuccessful to some degree because of market behavior or unexpected events. In the case of index options, the client incurs basis risk between the performance of the underlying portfolio and the performance of the underlying index. For example, the underlying portfolio may decline in value while the underlying index may increase in value, resulting in a loss on the call option while the underlying portfolio declines as well.

Alternative Investments

Alternative investments generally involve various risk factors and liquidity constraints, a complete discussion of which is set forth in the offering documents of each specific alternative investment, which will be provided to each prospective investor for review and consideration. Each investor will be required to complete a subscription agreement, pursuant to which the investor shall establish that they are qualified for investment in that alternative investment and acknowledges and accepts the various risk factors that are associated with such an investment.

Cybersecurity Risk

The computer systems, networks, and devices used by Forté and service providers to us and our clients to carry out routine business operations employ a variety of protections designed to prevent damage or interruption from computer viruses, network failures, computer and telecommunication failures, infiltration by unauthorized persons, and security breaches. Despite the various protections utilized, systems, networks, or devices potentially can be breached. A client could be negatively impacted as a result of a cybersecurity breach.

Cybersecurity breaches can include unauthorized access to systems, networks, or devices; infection from computer viruses or other malicious software code; and attacks that shut down, disable, slow, or otherwise disrupt operations, business processes, or website access or functionality. Cybersecurity breaches may cause disruptions and impact business operations, potentially resulting in financial losses to a client; impediments to trading; the inability by us and other service providers to transact business; violations of applicable privacy and other laws; regulatory fines, penalties, reputational damage, reimbursement or other compensation costs, or additional compliance costs; as well as the inadvertent release of confidential information.

Similar adverse consequences could result from cybersecurity breaches affecting issuers of securities in which a client invests; governmental and other regulatory authorities; exchange and other financial market operations, banks, brokers, dealers, and other financial institutions; and other parties. In addition, substantial costs may be incurred by these entities in order to prevent any cybersecurity breaches in the future.

Item 9. Disciplinary Information

Neither Forté nor any of its supervised persons have any reportable disciplinary history.

Item 10. Other Financial Industry Activities and Affiliations

Forté is not involved in any business other than giving investment advice. As a fiduciary, Forté has certain legal obligations, including the obligation to act in clients' best interest. Forté maintains a Business Continuity and Succession Plan and seeks to avoid a disruption of services to clients in the event of an unforeseen loss of key personnel, due to disability or death. Forté can provide additional information to any current or prospective client upon request to Timothy I. Low, President at 914-234-0281 or tlow@forteassets.com.

Item 11. Code of Ethics, Participation or Interest in Client Transactions and Personal Trading

Code of Ethics

Forté has adopted a Code of Ethics to prevent violations of federal securities laws. The Code of Ethics is predicated on the principle that Forté and its employees owe a fiduciary duty to its clients. Accordingly, Forté expects all employees to act with honesty, integrity, and professionalism and to adhere to federal securities laws. Forté and its employees are required to adhere to the Code of Ethics. At all times, Forté and its employees must (i) place client interests ahead of Forté's; (ii) engage in personal investing that is in full compliance with Forté's Code of Ethics; and (iii) avoid taking advantage of their position. Clients and prospective clients may request a copy of Forté's Code of Ethics by contacting Lorian M. Low, Chief Compliance Officer of Forté, at 914-234-0281.

Prohibition on Use of Insider Information

Forté has also adopted policies and procedures to prevent the misuse of "insider" information. A copy of Forté's Insider Trading policies and procedures is available to any client or prospective client upon request. For a copy of Forté's Insider Trading policies and procedures, please contact Lorian M. Low, Chief Compliance Officer of Forté, at 914-234-0281.

Participation or Interest in Client Transactions

As a principal, Forté does not buy securities for its own inventory nor sell securities it may own to any client. Forté may not affect transactions in which a client's securities are sold to or bought from brokerage customers. Principals and employees of Forté may buy or sell securities that are also recommended to clients. However, it is Forté's express policy that any person employed by Forté or a principal of Forté is prohibited from profiting at the expense of Forté's clients. Forté has established the following policies/restrictions in order to ensure its fiduciary responsibilities:

1. No person employed by Forté may purchase or sell any security being purchased or sold on the same day as any advisory account other than through a block trade with other clients through Forté's average price account (e.g. the price for security bought or sold will be the same for the Forté employee or principal and the client(s));
2. a principal or employee of Forté shall not buy or sell securities for their personal portfolio(s) where their decision is substantially derived, in whole or in part, by reason of his/her employment unless the information is also available to the investing public upon reasonable inquiry. No person of Forté shall prefer his/her own interest to that of the advisory client.
3. Forté emphasizes the unrestricted right of the client to decline to implement any advice rendered.
4. Forté requires that all employees must act in accordance with all applicable federal and state regulations governing registered investment advisory practices; and
5. Any employee not in observance of the above may be subject to termination.

Item 12. Brokerage Practices

Best Execution

Best execution has been defined by the SEC as the "execution of securities transactions for clients in such a manner that the client's total cost or proceeds in each transaction is the most favorable under the circumstances." The best execution responsibility applies to the circumstances of each particular transaction and an investment adviser must consider the full range and quality of a broker-dealer's services, including, among other things, execution capability, commission rates, the value of any research, financial responsibility and responsiveness.

In seeking best execution, the determinative factor is not the lowest possible cost, but whether the transaction represents the best qualitative execution, taking into consideration the full range of a broker-dealer's services, including among others, the value of research provided, execution capability, commission rates, and responsiveness. Consistent with the foregoing, while Forté will seek competitive rates, it may not necessarily obtain the lowest possible commission rates for client transactions.

Broker Analysis

Forté evaluates a wide range of criteria in seeking the most favorable price and market for the execution of transactions. These include the broker-dealer's trading costs, efficiency of execution and error resolution, financial strength and stability, capability, positioning and distribution capabilities, information regarding the availability of securities, trading patterns, statistical or factual information, opinion pertaining to trading and prior performance in serving Forté.

Also, in consideration is such broker-dealers' provision or payment of the costs of research and other investment management-related services (the provisional payment of such costs by brokers are referred to as payment made by "soft dollars" as further discussed in the "Research/Soft Dollars Benefits" section immediately below). Accordingly, if Forté determines in good faith that the amount of trading costs charged by a broker-dealer is reasonable in relation to the value of the brokerage and research or investment management-related services provided by such broker, the client may pay trading costs to such broker in an amount greater than the amount another broker might charge.

Forté's portfolio manager is responsible for continuously monitoring and evaluating the performance and execution capabilities of brokers that transact orders for our client accounts to ensure consistent quality executions. In addition, Forté periodically reviews its transaction costs considering current market circumstances and other relevant information.

Research/Soft Dollar Benefits

An investment adviser receives soft dollar benefits from a broker-dealer when the investment adviser receives research or other products and services in exchange for client securities transactions or maintaining an account balance with the broker-dealer.

Forté utilizes the services of Fidelity Institutional Wealth Services. While there is no direct linkage (except in certain circumstances) between the investment advice given to clients and Forté's participation in the Fidelity Institutional Wealth Services program, economic benefits are received by Forté which would not be received if we did not give investment advice to clients.

Although we don't allow directed brokerage, we may still receive benefits from program sponsors and product issuers. These benefits may be used for both research and non-research purposes and allows us to supplement, at no cost, our own research and analysis activities. These benefits include: a dedicated trade desk that services the program participants exclusively, a dedicated service group and an account services manager dedicated to Forté's accounts, access to a real-time order matching system, the ability to "block" clients' trades, electronic download of trades, balances and position information, duplicate and batched client statements, confirmations, year-end summaries, the ability to have advisory fees directly debited from client accounts (in accordance with federal and state requirements), availability of third-party research and technology, a quarterly newsletter.

The benefits received through participation in the Fidelity Institutional Wealth Services program do not depend upon the amount of transactions directed to or amount of assets managed through Fidelity Institutional Wealth Services.

Research obtained with soft dollars is not necessarily utilized for the specific account that generated the soft dollars. We do not attempt to allocate the relative costs or benefits of research among clients because we believe that, in the aggregate, the research we receive benefits all clients and assists us in fulfilling our overall duty to you.

These arrangements may be deemed to create a conflict of interest to the extent that we would have to pay for some or all of the research and/or services with "hard dollars" if we were unable to obtain the research and services in exchange for commissions in connection with client transactions. Client trades are always implemented based on the goals and objectives of the client and not on any research, products or other incentives available.

Brokerage Selection

If you elect to utilize our management services, you are required to establish a brokerage account at Fidelity Brokerage Services. Fidelity provides Forté with access to their institutional trading and custody services, which are typically not available to retail investors. The services from Fidelity include brokerage, custody, research, and access to investments that are otherwise generally available only to institutional investors or would require a significantly higher minimum initial investment.

Fidelity also makes available to Forté other products and services that we benefit from but may not benefit your accounts. Some of these other products and services assist us in managing and administering client accounts. These include software and other technology that:

- Provide access to client account data (such as trade confirmation and account statements)
- Facilitate trade execution (and allocation of aggregated trade orders for multiple client accounts)
- Provide research, pricing information and other market data
- Facilitate payment of our fees from client accounts
- Assist with back-office functions, recordkeeping, and client reporting.

Many of these services generally may be used to service all or a substantial number of our accounts. Fidelity also makes available other services intended to help us manage and further develop our business. These services may include:

- Consulting, publications, and conferences on practice management
- Information technology
- Business succession
- Regulatory compliance
- Marketing.

In addition, Fidelity may make available, arrange and/or pay for these types of services rendered to Forté by independent third parties providing these services to us. As a fiduciary, we endeavor to act in your best interest. Our requirement that you maintain your assets in accounts at Fidelity can be based in part on the benefit to us of the availability of some of the foregoing products and services and not solely on the nature, cost or quality of custody and brokerage services provided by Fidelity. This creates a conflict of interest.

You are under no obligation to act on our recommendations. You may select a broker/dealer or account custodian other than Fidelity, although in this case we cannot assist you with asset management services.

Client Directed Brokerage

Clients should understand that not all investment advisors require the use of a particular broker/dealer or custodian. Some investment advisors allow their clients to select whichever broker/dealer the client decides. By requiring clients to use a particular broker/dealer, Forté may not achieve the most favorable execution of client transactions and the practice requiring the use of specific broker/dealers may cost clients more money than if the client used a different broker/dealer or custodian. However, for compliance and operational efficiencies, Forté has decided to require our clients to use broker/dealers and qualified custodians determined by Forté.

Trade Aggregation/Allocation Investment Management Services

It is the objective of Forté to provide a means of allocating trading and investment opportunities between advisory clients on a fair and equitable basis and in compliance with all applicable state and federal guidelines. With respect to clients' accounts with substantially similar investment objectives and policies, Forté may often seek to purchase or sell a particular security in each account. Forté will aggregate orders only when such aggregation is consistent with Forté's duty to seek best execution and is consistent with the investment objective of each client. No client account will be unfairly favored over any other account.

Each client that participates in an aggregated order will participate based on the average execution price in that particular security. All securities purchased or sold, whether the order is filled completely or partially, will then be allocated pro rata based on the assets of each account.

Trade Errors

Trade errors are promptly reported to the custodian and will be rectified by the custodian with no adverse financial effect on the client.

Item 13. Review of Accounts

Reviews

All client accounts under Forté's management are monitored on a continuous and ongoing basis while regular account reviews are conducted on at least a quarterly basis. Such reviews are conducted by Forté's investment adviser representatives. The review includes holdings, asset allocation, and comparisons to any relevant benchmarks and investment policies. Accounts are reviewed in the context of each client's investment objectives and guidelines, ensuring that the structure of the portfolio is coordinated with these objectives. More frequent reviews may be triggered by material changes in variables such as the client's individual circumstances, or the market, political or economic environment.

Reports

Clients will receive monthly statements directly from the custodian and quarterly performance reports from a third-party. Confirmation statements will be issued by the custodian for all trading activity.

Item 14. Client Referrals and Other Compensation

The only compensation received from advisory services is the fees charged for providing investment advisory services as described in Item 5 of this Disclosure Brochure. Forté receives no other forms of compensation in connection with providing investment advice.

Please see Item 12, Brokerage Practices, for additional discussion concerning economic benefits received from Fidelity.

Forté does not retain solicitors to refer clients.

Item 15. Custody

Forté is given the authority from clients to deduct advisory fees directly from client accounts. Such authority is deemed to be custody as defined by the SEC. Forté is also deemed to have custody of client funds and securities when Forté has standing authority (also known as a standing letter of authorization or “SLOA”) to move money from a client’s account to a third-party account.

Pursuant to SEC Rule 206(4)-2, Fidelity has controls and forms in place that satisfy six of the seven no-action relief conditions. With respect to third party standing letters of authorization (“SLOA”) in which customer’s grant their designated registered investment adviser the limited authority to disburse funds to one or more third parties as specifically designated by the customer, Fidelity has reasonable policies and procedures in place which are designed to verify the customer’s instruction. Fidelity also provides a notice to the customer upon the setup of a SLOA, when funds are disbursed and an annual notice reconfirming the SLOA. A customer may modify or terminate the SLOA at any time. Also, the designated registered investment adviser has no authority or ability to change any of the information related to the third-party payee in the SLOA.

Forté has established procedures to ensure all client funds and securities are held at a qualified custodian, in a separate account for each client under that client's name. Clients are also notified, in writing, of the qualified custodian's name, address and the manner in which the funds or securities are maintained, promptly when the account is opened and following any changes.

Clients will receive directly from the custodian at least quarterly a statement showing all transactions occurring in the client’s account during the period covered by the account statement, and the funds, securities and other property in the client’s account at the end of the period. Clients are urged to carefully review account statements sent by their broker-dealer/ custodian and to compare the account statement provided by the broker-dealer/ custodian with any statements provided by Forté.

Item 16. Investment Discretion

For those client accounts over which Forté has discretion, Forté requests that it be provided with written authority (e.g., limited power of attorney contained in Forté’s Investment Management Agreement) to determine the amounts of securities that are bought or sold. Any limitations on this discretionary authority shall be included in this written authority statement. Clients may change or amend these limitations as required. All such amendments shall be submitted in writing.

Forté generally has discretionary authority to make the following determinations without obtaining the consent of the client before the transactions are affected: (1) which securities are bought and sold for the account and (2) the total amount of securities to be bought and sold. Forté’s authority in making investment related decisions may be limited by account guidelines, investment objectives and trading restrictions, as agreed between Forté and the client.

Item 17. Voting Client Securities

Proxy Voting

Forté does not vote proxies on behalf of its clients. Therefore, the client maintains exclusive responsibility for: (1) directing the manner in which proxies solicited by issuers of securities beneficially owned by the client shall be voted and (2) making all elections relative to any mergers, acquisitions, tender offers, bankruptcy proceeding or other type events pertaining to the client’s investment assets. Forté and/or the client shall instruct each custodian of the assets to forward to the client copies of all proxies and shareholder communications relating to the client’s investment assets. Clients can contact Loriann M. Low, Chief Compliance Officer of Forté, at 914-234-0281 if they have questions regarding a particular solicitation.

Class Action Settlements

Although Forté has discretion over client accounts, it will not be responsible for handling client claims in class action lawsuits or similar settlements involving securities owned by the client. Clients will receive the paperwork for such claims directly from their account custodians. Each client should verify with their custodian or other account administrator whether such claims are being made on the client's behalf by the custodian or if the client is expected to file such claims directly.

Item 18. Financial Information

Prepayment of Fees

Because Forté does not require or accept prepayment of more than $1,200 in fees six months or more in advance, Forté is not required to include a balance sheet with this disclosure brochure.

Financial Condition

Forté has received a loan from Josiah O. Low III in order to assist with a buy-out agreement with a former Forté general partner. We are financially stable and will maintain sufficient capital to meet contractual commitments to clients. Firm capital accounts will be reviewed monthly to confirm adherence to such policy.

Bankruptcy

Forté has never been the subject of a bankruptcy petition.

Item 19. Requirements for State Registered Advisers

We are a federally registered investment adviser; therefore, we are not required to respond to this item.

Item 20. Additional Information

Privacy Notice

At Forté Asset Management, we work hard to earn the trust of our clients and everyone with whom we deal. The relationship between Forté Asset Management and our clients is the most important asset of our firm. We strive to maintain your trust and confidence, which is an essential aspect of our commitment to protect your personal information to the best of our ability. We believe that our clients value their privacy, and we do not disclose your personal information to anyone unless it is required by law, at your direction, or is necessary to provide you with our services. We have not and will not sell your personal information to anyone.

Forté collects and maintains your non-public personal information so that we can better provide investment management services to you. The types and categories of information we collect and maintain about you include:

- Information we receive from you to open an account or provide investment advice services, such as your home address, telephone number, date of birth, social security number, and financial information.
- Information about your transactions that we need to service your account, such as trade confirmations, account statements and other financial information.

In order for us to provide investment management services to you, it is sometimes necessary for us to disclose your personal information to third parties (e.g., brokers, custodians, regulators, accountants and lawyers). In addition, we also outsource certain functions to various nonaffiliated third-party vendors. To allow these vendors to perform their contracted services, the firm may disclose certain nonpublic personal information about its clients to these vendors. While our contractual arrangements with third-party vendors prohibits third-party vendors from disclosing or using client information other than for the purposes of performing services for the firm, third-party vendors could experience information security breaches or other incidents that could expose client information. The occurrence of such an incident at a third-party vendor is outside of the firm's control.

To fulfill our privacy commitment at Forté Asset Management, we have instituted firm-wide practices to safeguard the information that we maintain about you. These include:

- Adopting procedures that put in place physical, electronic, and other safeguards to keep your personal information safe.
- Limiting access to personal information to those employees who need to know that information to perform their job duties or provide products or services to you.
- Requiring third parties that perform services for us to agree, by contract, to keep your information strictly confidential.
- Protecting information of our former clients to the same extent as our current clients.

At Forté Asset Management, we value your privacy.

If you have any questions about our privacy practices, please contact us at 914-234-0281.

IRA Rollover Considerations

As part of our investment advisory services to you, we may recommend that you withdraw the assets from your employer's retirement plan and roll the assets over to an individual retirement account ("IRA") that we will manage on your behalf. If you elect to roll the assets to an IRA that is subject to our management, we will charge you an asset-based fee as set forth in the agreement you executed with our firm. This practice presents a conflict of interest because persons providing investment advice on our behalf have an incentive to recommend a rollover to you for the purpose of generating fee-based compensation rather than solely based on your needs. You are under no obligation, contractually or otherwise, to complete the rollover. Moreover, if you do complete the rollover, you are under no obligation to have the assets in an IRA managed by our firm.

Many employers permit former employees to keep their retirement assets in their company plan. Also, current employees can sometimes move assets out of their company plan before they retire or change jobs. In determining whether to complete the rollover to an IRA, and to the extent the following options are available, you should consider the costs and benefits of:

1. Leaving the funds in your employer's (former employer's) plan.
2. Moving the funds to a new employer's retirement plan.
3. Cashing out and taking a taxable distribution from the plan.
4. Rolling the funds into an IRA rollover account.

Each of these options has advantages and disadvantages and before making a change we encourage you to speak with your CPA and/or tax attorney.

If you are considering rolling over your retirement funds to an IRA for us to manage here are a few points to consider before doing so:

1. Determine whether the investment options in your employer's retirement plan address your needs or whether you might want to consider other types of investments.
 - a. Employer retirement plans generally have a more limited investment menu than IRAs.
 - b. Employer retirement plans may have unique investment options not available to the public such as employer securities, or previously closed funds.
2. Your current plan may have lower fees than our fees.
 - a. If you are interested in investing only in mutual funds, you should understand the cost structure of the share classes available in your employer's retirement plan and how the cost of those share classes compares with those available in an IRA.
 - b. You should understand the various products and services you might take advantage of at an IRA provider and the potential costs of those products and services.
3. Our strategy may have higher risk than the option(s) provided to you in your plan.
4. Your current plan may also offer financial advice.
5. If you keep your assets titled in a 401k or retirement account, you could potentially delay your required minimum distribution beyond age 72.
6. Your 401k may offer more liability protection than a rollover IRA; each state may vary.
 - a. Generally, federal law protects assets in qualified plans from creditors. Since 2005, IRA assets have been generally protected from creditors in bankruptcies. However, there can be some exceptions to the general rules so you should consult with an attorney if you are concerned about protecting your retirement plan assets from creditors.
7. You may be able to take out a loan on your 401k, but not from an IRA.
8. IRA assets can be accessed at any time; however, distributions are subject to ordinary income tax and may also be subject to a 10% early distribution penalty unless they qualify for an exception such as disability, higher education expenses or the purchase of a home.
9. If you own company stock in your plan, you may be able to liquidate those shares at a lower capital gains tax rate.
10. Your plan may allow you to hire us as the manager and keep the assets titled in the plan name.

It is important that you understand the differences between these types of accounts and to decide whether a rollover is best for you. Prior to proceeding, if you have questions contact your investment adviser representative, or call our main number as listed on the cover page of this brochure.
